

B/OLD: AGING IN OUR CITY

B/OLD: Aging in our city is a free, two-day event, which will take place at Concordia University on May 16th and 17th.

It invites the city's residents, researchers, artists, policy makers, and activists to consider what it means to grow older together in Montreal.

Organized by The ACT Project and engAGE Concordia, B/OLD will present unique keynotes featuring prominent researchers on the subjects of aging, May Chazan (Trent University) and Larissa Hjorth (RMIT University).

B/OLD guests will also have a chance to participate in critical panel discussions with local activists and city representatives, which will offer a unique opportunity for an intergenerational exchange and collaboration on topics that truly matter to Montreal's senior residents, such as housing, digital literacy and culture, inclusion, public arts and creative aging in an urban environment.

Additionally, B/OLD's extended programming between May 14 and 24, will offer citizens of all ages an opportunity to connect with one another, and share their experience, while participating in interactive activities, including an escape room, graffiti workshops, and a podcast recording!

We hope to welcome you at B/OLD, and share your experience in an interactive, inclusive community setting! To see the full preliminary programming please visit: www.b-old.ca, and to register for this special event or free, click here.
